

First Aid Safety Module

The Victorian First Aid Code of practice states that First Aid Facilities and services should be located at points convenient to the workforce and where there is a significant risk of an injury occurring. Employers must conduct a First Aid risk assessment to determine the types of first aid kits, the number and training of First Aiders, any special workplace risks and associated policies and procedures.

This First Aid Safety Module is suitable for medium to large workplaces and extra high-use items are included in this module.
